Gonny Vink - Remote Leadership

About managing mobile employees and home workers

LEADERSHIP | TEAMS

More and more people are not working at the office anymore. They work from home, mobile, or from a vacation location. You want to discuss current projects and progress or have an informal chat to build a connection. But how do you do that at a distance?

Gonny Vink shows how you can cooperate with people, despite the distance. Read how you turn a group of employees into a team, even if they hardly meet each other physically. And learn how you can exchange information and make clear appointments and agreements at work.

An essential guide book for managers who want to continue actively support their external employees.

RECOMMENDATIONS

'The book was easy to read and filled with recognition. The book proves that we still have a lot to gain with most managers. Not all of them will know how to create and keep a sustainable connection with their employees.' – Managementboek.nl

'Hybrid working is increasingly popular, making remote leadership ever more important.'
– The Entrepreneur
